

ASHLEY LOGSDON

VISIONARY, CHANGE-AGENT, PARADIGM SHIFTER AND LOVER OF LIFE

Ashley Logsdon takes families from surviving to thriving by helping them uncover how the uniqueness in each of us strengthens all of us. Using personality profiles, step-by-step action plans, and collaboration exercises, she works with mothers first and foremost so they can not only BE the good in the family, but they can SEE the good in everyone.

For the past twelve years, Ashley has headed up the business side of her father's company, www.48Days.com. She speaks on DISC personality styles and developed a coaching certification program that she continues to lead coaches through even now.

Utilizing her business experience, her Psychology and American Sign Language Degrees, and her experience raising her own family, she brings a wealth of information and resources to create a family that IS your vacation - not something you need to get away from!

Ashley thrives on challenging questions and out-of-the-box thinking. She and her husband of 12 years, Nathan, unschool their three daughters (9, 6 & 3) and believe the world is their school. In 2015, she and her family went to Costa Rica for a month to simply explore together. This year, they will start the beginning of their RV adventures, traveling the states.

Ashley's goal is to help people realize the beauty of the people they surround themselves with on a daily basis.

MISSION

Meet Ashley Logsdon, aka MamaRose. Passionate about relationships and the amazing personalities that allow us to communicate, connect, and create the families we want to come home to. Insanely optimistic dreamer and implementer, gung-ho to take life by the horns and learn from it...and coach others along the way!
